WORLD OF LEARNING
2013
63RD EDITION

A comprehensive directory and guide to organizations and institutions throughout the sphere of higher education, research and learning.

Unrivalled in its depth of practical and reliable information The Europa World of Learning is an invaluable tool for the research worker and the occasional browser alike. Profiling some 30,000 academic institutions and over 250,000 staff and officials the directory covers the entire spectrum of higher education, research and learning, from schools of art and universities to learned societies and museums. Meticulously updated to the highest editorial standards, entries are sourced from the organizations themselves to ensure accurate and reliable information.

Users of World of Learning 2013 will benefit from:

- an easy to use format: separate chapters for each country grouping institutions by type and a 140-page index
- full contact details, description of activities, membership and publications for each institution
- lists of key academic staff and officials for each entry, broken down by subject taught for major universities
- an introductory survey per country updating users on recent developments in the national education system
- a comprehensive list of more than 600 international organizations concerned with higher education and scholarship.

‘The best single reference book on international scholarship.’
– The Times Literary Supplement

‘If a library does not have The Europa World of Learning it does not belong in the world of learning.’
– World Affairs Report
