In the paragraph below, I used the adjective clause signal words who, which, and that to add details to a description of the things I find in my purse when I clean it out. Notice that I underlined all the adjective clauses.

In my purse I found some crumpled receipts from last year, which I do not need any more. Also, I found a grocery list for a meal that I cooked four weeks ago. In addition, I found a thank-you note to Lydia, who is my best friend from college.

Please write a paragraph of your own. You can create any location for your discoveries or use one of the following: under my bed, in our refrigerator, in my top drawer, in the back of my closet. Begin your adjective clauses with a relative pronoun like who, which, or that and have fun with this paragraph!
